SERVICE TO THE COLONY

THE AWARDED OF THE CERTIFICATES OF HONOUR GOVERNING RULES

In connection with the award of the Certificates of Honour, the following governing rules are published in the Government Gazette for information.

1. A certificate of Honour shall consist of a scroll, bearing the portrait of His Majesty the King and the signature and seal of His Excellency the Governor and Commander-in-Chief or of the Officer Administering the Government.
2. Recipients of a Certificate of Honour shall be entitled to wear around the neck, pendant from a ribbon coloured red, white and blue forty inches in length and one and a half inches wide, a silver gilt Badge, bearing on the obverse the approved portrait of His Majesty the King, and on the reverse the badge of the Colony accompanied by the inscription in English character "Hong Kong."
3. The Badge of the Certificate of Honour may be worn on ceremonial occasions and on occasions when Orders, Decorations and Medals are worn.
4. Certificates of Honour shall only be awarded to persons who have resided in the Colony of Hong Kong for a period of at least fifteen years; provided that in cases of extraordinary merit the Certificate may be awarded to persons who have so resided of a less period than fifteen years. The total number of holders of the Certificates of Honour shall not exceed 10 at any one time.
5. Notification of the award of Certificates of Honour shall ordinarily be made in a special "Honours" supplement of the Government Gazette, to be published on the birthday of His Majesty the King.
6. At the first convenient date after such notification the recipient of a Certificate of Honour shall, on a ceremonial occasion, be invested with the ribbon and badge together with the scroll of a Certificate of Honour by the Governor or Officer Administering the Government, or by such person as he shall designate to represent him for that purpose.
7. If any person to whom the Certificate has been awarded shall be guilty of misconduct or of disloyalty to the Government he may be deprived by the Governor or Officer Administering the Government, who shall have power also to restore it to him.
8. Upon forfeiture of the Certificate or upon the death of any recipient the badge shall be returned forthwith to the Governor or Officer Administering the Government unless he shall in any instance deem otherwise expedient; but in no case shall the badge be worn by any other than the person to whom the Certificate was awarded.
9. The Governor or Officer Administering the Government is empowered to make, amend or dispense with such executive regulations, not inconsistent with these rules, as he may deem advisable for the better conduct of all matters relating to the procedure to be observed in respect of Certificates of Honour.

WELCOME HOME LEAVE

The transport steamer Neauralla leaves for home leave time this afternoon. On board is a battalion of the White Horse Regiment, who have been stationed in the East for some time. There are not many departures from this colony. We understand that there are only six services men travelling by air. It is to be regretted that the Neauralla was delayed outside Hong Kong for a good many hours, and had been stranded to be played on the film ground. However, the transport steamer Neauralla is a fine ship.

MOTOR TOURIST SUMMONED

DRIVING IN PROHIBITED ROADS "ADVERTISING STUNT"

"The whole thing is an advertising stunt," was the remark made by Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistracy this morning when Mr. R. Lacer, a motorist, was summoned for driving on prohibited roads, namely, Lugard and Harlech Roads, on February 23, without a permit from the Inspector-General of Police.

Plea of Ignorance. Defendant pleaded "guilty," but said that he did not know that it was forbidden to drive on those roads. He explained that when he came to the Peak tram station, he saw three roads. There was a red sign in the middle one. There was no sign on the road to the left and he took it. As the car went through the road became narrower and narrower, so he had to continue.

Magistrate: What time was this? Mr. Lacer: At 1 o'clock. A Policeman cleared the road for me. There was a riksha there and he told it to go away for me to pass.

Menace to Children. Mr. Hamilton remarked that the defendant had applied for a temporary licence and yet he did not take any trouble to discover what roads were prohibited. Lugard Road was thickly frequented by children, who were endangered. The whole thing seemed to him to be an advertising stunt. As defendant was receiving the protection of the Colony he should make it his business to abide by the laws.

Defendant: Yes, but I can swear that I did not know it was forbidden. Mr. Hamilton: Fined $25.

Damage to Railings. Traffic Inspector Alexander reported that damage to the extent of $20 was done of railings on the road, whereupon his Worship ordered defendant to pay a further $20 to make good the damage.

In conclusion, his Worship said: Please don't let us have any more of this driving on impossible roads. I understand you have been on the Peak Road, too, which is also forbidden.

MONEY LEFT

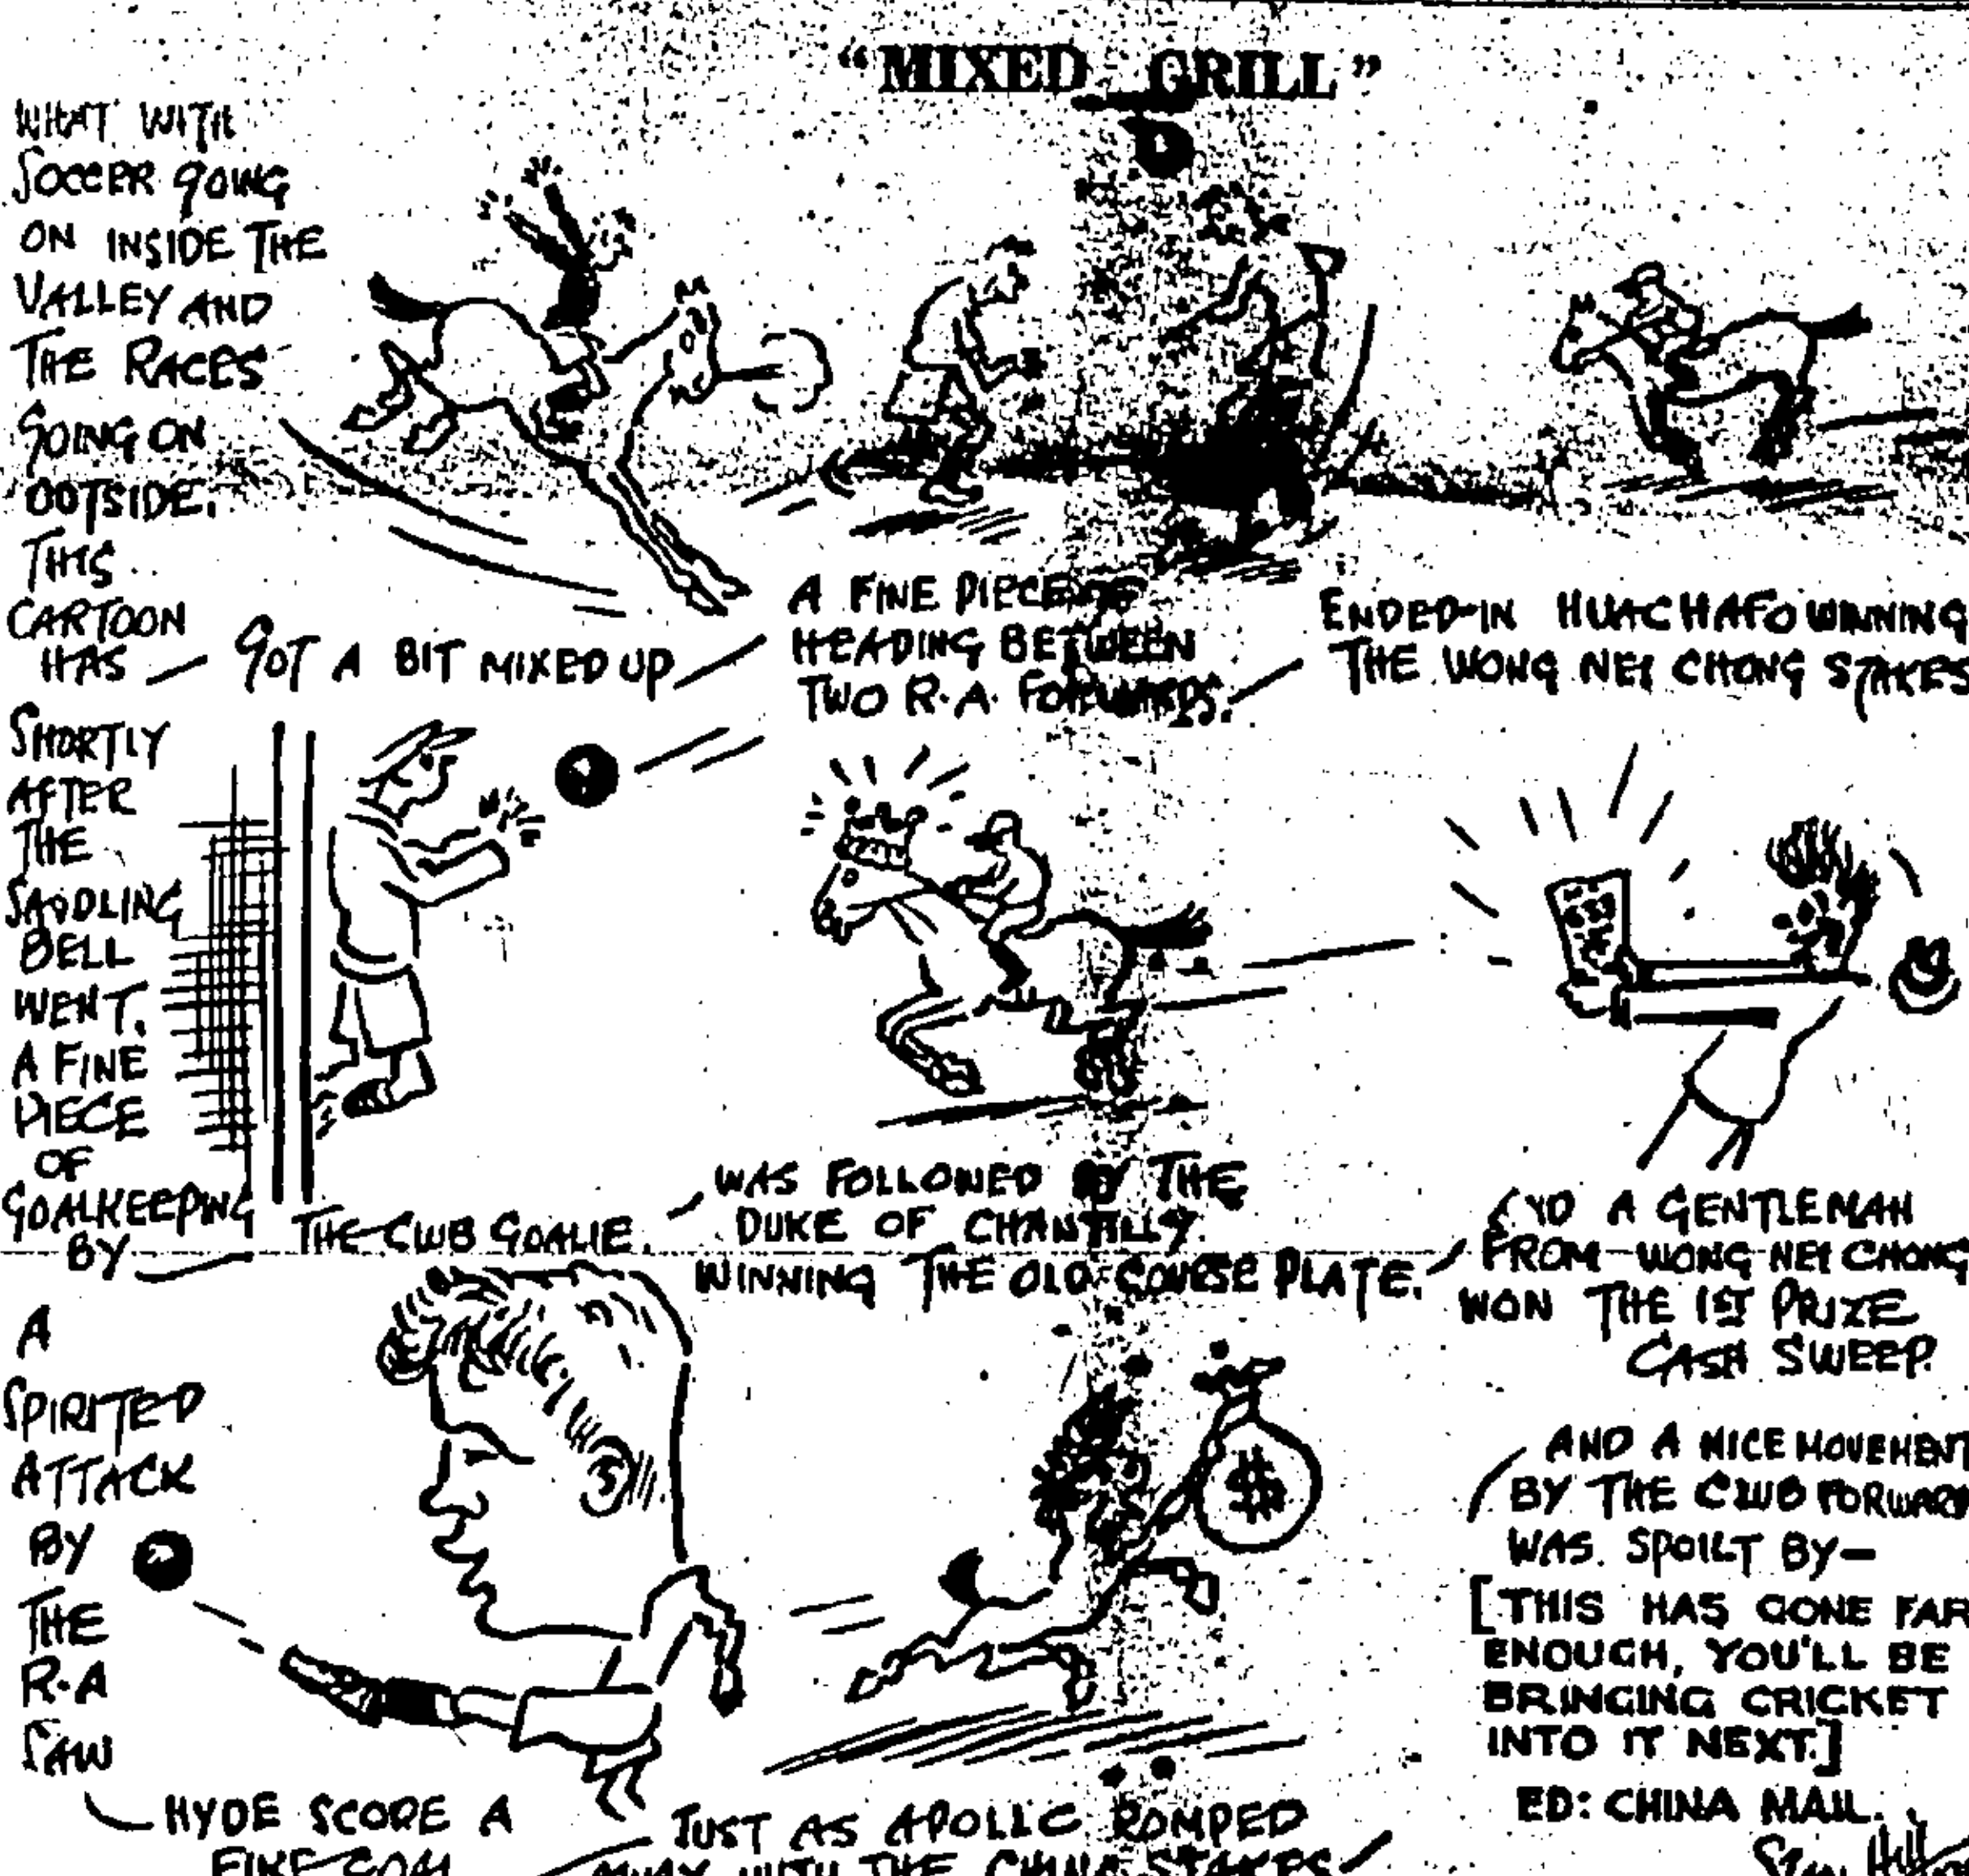

Fortune of a Retired Colonel

Lieut.-Col. Andrew Bell-Irving, retired from the Royal Field Artillery, and late of the Army and Navy Club, Pall Mall, who died on July 24, 1929, at the Empire Nursing Home, Vincent Square, Westminster, London, left estate in Hong Kong to the value of $250,000. Net personal estate of the deceased in the United Kingdom is valued at $141,088 19s. 4d. In his will he appointed his two brothers—Mr. James Jardine Bell-Irving, and Mr. John Bell-Irving, a solicitor, Mr. Freke Daglish Williams, to be trustees and executors of his will. Probate has now been applied for by Mr. B. D. F. Bath, of Messrs. Jardine Matheson & Co., Ltd., of Hong Kong, on behalf of the two brothers. Several family bequests were mentioned in the will; also a sum of £250 each is bequeathed to the Royal Artillery Charities Fund, Woolwich, and the Queen Victoria School, Dunblane, Scotland. The rest of the estate, after paying out the bequests mentioned and funeral expenses, is to go to Mr. John Bell-Irving.

LOW TIN RECORDS

Fail to Lowest Price Since 1922

Rugby, Yesterday. New low records were established by both tin and silver in the metal market to-day. Tin fell to 118s. 11d. per ton, which is the lowest price since 1922, when $118 per ton was recorded. Bar silver dropped to 19s. 6d. per ounce, the lowest price reached since official records were kept. This is the lowest price since the introduction of a duty of 10s. per ton on tin in 1922. The tin market is very active, and the price is expected to rise.

BRITISH PRAYERS FOR RUSSIANS

NOT TO BE SAID EITHER BY ARMY OR NAVY TOO POLITICAL

London, Yesterday. The Archbishops of Canterbury and York have asked that March 16 be observed in all churches as a day of prayer on behalf of those religiously oppressed in Russia, and hope that special prayers will continue for the week following March 16. The Archbishops recall that the Pope has asked for intercessions on March 19 and understand that the Evangelical Free Churches will observe March 16 as a day of prayer.

The Army Council in a letter to the British Army Commands at Home and abroad states that His Majesty's Government has decided in view of the political character that the controversy has assumed, that it is undesirable that intercessory prayers for Russians should be read at the religious services in Army. Similar instructions have been sent to Navy Establishments in ships and to the Air Force Commands.

Loyalty to the Faith

Rugby, Yesterday. The Archbishops of Canterbury and York have issued a statement asking that Sunday, March 16, be observed in all churches within their provinces as a day of prayer on behalf of those suffering from oppression in Russia through loyalty to their religious faith. At the same time the following letter has been addressed by Mr. Greedy, Permanent Under-Secretary for War, to the Military Commands at home and abroad. "An command by the Army Council to inform you that His Majesty's Government have decided, in view of the political character which the controversy has assumed, that it is undesirable that intercessory prayers for Russian subjects should be read at religious services in the army." The message has been sent to ships and establishments of the British Navy, saying that the order for services for Russian Christians made by the Archbishop of Canterbury does not apply to naval ships and establishments. A similar communication has been sent to the Royal Air Force Commands—British Wireless Service.

APPOINTMENTS

The following appointments are contained in the current issue of the Hong Kong Government Gazette:—Mr. Cyril Champlin to be Lieutenant in the Reserve of Officers, Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps, with effect from February 18. The Rev. Fr. Daniel MacDonald, B.Sc., to be a member of the Board of Education during the absence from the Colony of the Rev. Fr. George Byrne, D. Ph., or until further notice with effect from February 22. Captain Richard Clive Strachey, M.C., 1st Battalion, the Somerset Light Infantry, to act as Adjutant under the provisions of the Hong Kong Volunteer Regulations, 1920, with effect from February 27. KASHMIR GRAZES A WARSHIP VESSELS HIT ROCKS

The thick fog along the China sea and coast has been the means of several ships either colliding with others or running aground. Yesterday, the P. & O. s.s. Kashmir on her way to Hong Kong from Japan and Northern ports, grazed H.M.S. Aphis at Shanghai, while the latter was alongside H.M.S. Cornwall. Slight damage was done to the Aphis. Struck Rocks. Another mishap also occurred yesterday morning, at about eleven o'clock, when the Nissen Kisen Kaisha s.s. Palling Maru struck some rocks whilst

CHINA PIRACIES

Question Of Armed Guards For Ships

London, Yesterday. In the House of Commons at question time, Mr. A. V. Alexander, First Lord, stated that Mr. Ramsay MacDonald recently received a communication in regard to the proposal to withdraw from April 1, armed guards from His Majesty's forces recently supplied to certain merchantmen plying the China coast. The proposals made therein were being examined and he hoped to send a reply shortly.—Reuter.

On her trip to this port from Swallow. She was eventually beached on the sandy shores of Manow, which is to the east of Swallow. On enquiry at the N.Y.K. (agents for the vessel) office this morning a China Mail reporter learned that the Palling Maru leaked badly at the No. 1 and 2 holds and later returned to Amoy. Her cargo was mainly ground nuts and bean oil, which sustained slight damage.

The Palling Maru is a steamer of 2,422 net tonnage, and was built at Glasgow by W. Hamilton & Co. in 1907, and registered at Tokyo. Third Mishap. The Water Police received a radio message this morning to the effect that the Japanese vessel the Tetsu Maru had struck a rock in Hainan Strait. No assistance was needed and her condition was safe. The vessel, the Tetsu Maru, China Building, informed a China Mail representative that this vessel (which has a cargo of coal) was bound from Port Arthur to Swatow, when she struck a rock. The Tetsu Maru was a 1,240-ton vessel built by Harbin Shipyard, Kiangnan, China. An official report stated that the vessel was damaged, but the crew and cargo were safe. The vessel is expected to return to Port Arthur.

TRADE POLICY IN INDIA

PROTECTIVE DUTY ON NON-BRITISH COTTON GOODS

New Delhi, Yesterday. In connection with the additional protective duty on non-British cotton goods, Sir Felix Schuster's speech, showed striking evidence that the fiscal autonomy convention may become an integral part of the constitution, and even when British interests are profoundly affected by tariff changes in India the intervention of the British Government will be restricted to representation and appeal.

Sir Felix Schuster revealed that the British Government sent a message to the Government of India, asking it to take account of the serious effects of their proposals in England—effects which they felt sure neither the Government of India nor the legislature would desire to create.

The Government of India replied that it had deep sympathy, but the interests of India must come first. They realised, however, how important it was for India from a political point of view to take account of British opinion, therefore, they suggested an additional duty, but the final decision lay with the Legislative Assembly. Sir Felix Schuster added, that very considerable comment was expected regarding the decision, but they welcomed the most critical scrutiny. He appealed, however, for the decision to be given in a calm, judicial spirit.—Reuter. [Sir Felix Schuster is a Member of the Council of India.] [The Bombay Government has issued a note as regards depression in the cotton industry, and says that if the mill owners clearly demonstrate that they are doing their utmost to improve their position, "the case is made out for protection against foreign competition." The Note declares that a protective tariff should be devised simply to provide breathing space while the industry is reorganising.]

RAILWAY SCHEME

To Be Assisted by the Government

Rugby, Yesterday. At the annual meeting of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway, said that development schemes for the railway, involving an expenditure of approximately £1,900,000, had been approved by the Government. Of this amount £1,450,000 would rank for a grant of interest from the Government under an act which provides for such assistance to railway works calculated to promote improvement. Further schemes involving an expenditure of between £3,000,000 and £4,000,000 were under consideration.—British Wireless Service.

POSSIBILITIES ON OFF DAY

BIG SUB RACE THE PRINCIPAL EVENT

PRESIDENT HALL RUNNING. The annual race meeting will conclude to-day, and judging by the class of the racing, at the previous meetings we should see some very good sport. The racing during the first days of the meeting was all that could be desired, and I do not suppose that we shall see such a sensational meeting for many years to come. Seven records have been broken, two by Diana Hay, which has proved the most outstanding pony at the meeting.

Only a few of the Shanghai jockeys will be riding to-day, as most of the other boys have gone back to Shanghai. They are a great bunch of fellows these riders who come down every year and managed to pass a very pleasant time during the interval between races.

Piccadilly is the great big bet for this meeting, and wherever he goes I would advise backers to have a good punt on him as he had very bad joss at the last meeting when he was left standing at the post in an event which he should have won in a canter.

My selections are:—

- 1st Race: Armony, Cream Cracker, King's Falloch or Zephyr.
- 2nd Race: Piccadilly, Windsor, Gay Caballero.
- 3rd Race: Young Pretender, Chesapeake Bay, November.
- 4th Race: Snaefell, Peter Guernsey, Thracian.
- 5th Race: Baby Face, Mountain Oak, Happy Day.
- 6th Race: President Hall, Chesapeake Bay, Majestic Hall.
- 7th Race: Four Clubs, Christmas Frolic, Tarmacadam.
- 8th Race: Tango, Heard's Mount, Tonbridge.
- 9th Race: Samaritan, San Francisco, Sunloch.
- 10th Race: Windsor Stag, Gay Caballero, Silver Queen.
- 11th Race: Christmas Chimes, Monterey Bay, Fifty Fifty.

INDO-CHINA MUTINY

Thirteen Sentenced to Death

Hanoi, French Indo-China, Yesterday. The Criminal Court at Yen Bay, judging the culprits charged in connection with the recent troubles and murders, has sentenced thirteen to death and two to hard labour.—Havas. [It was reported from Hanoi last week that the ringleader of the recent rebellion, named Nguyen Thai Hoo, and several of his accomplices, have been arrested. Native troops are scouring the lower delta in search of rebels. The Governor General in a message to the people says that tranquillity has been restored, and the peasants can return to their farms confident of the Government's ability to maintain order.]

THE REVOLT OF YEN HSI-SHAN

TO RE-ORGANISE GOVERNMENT AT PEKING

Shanghai, Yesterday. With regard to the revolt of Yen Hsi-shan, it is stated that he has adopted two courses of action against the Central Government. The first is to re-organise a new Government at Peking by assembling the Kuomintang members for a Special Congress, and to elect members for the Executive-Supervising Committee, he himself to be the Chairman, as seen in his circular telegram dated February 28, which included the names of Wang Ching-wei, Feng Yu-hsiang, Tang Seng-chi, Li Chung-jen, Pei Huang-hai, Wang Shao-hung, Chang Fat-kuei etc., all of whom had been expelled from the Party. Yen Hsi-shan and Feng Yu-hsiang are preparing shortly to proceed to Peking for the Congress.

The second is to instruct the Kuomintang to threaten Wu-Han from Loachow, and to force the doubtful troops in Honan and Hupeh to revolt against the Central Government. Following the revolt of Generals Koo Kuei-chu and Yin Ying-chi in Shantung, the Shansi troops under Feng Peng-chu have invaded Hotak and Tingtan in western Shantung. The former rebels have since, however, surrendered to the Central forces.

No Battle For 18 Years. The Shansi troops have not experienced any battle since the last 18 years. It is therefore, widely believed that it will not be difficult for the Central Government to suppress the rebels as soon as fighting breaks out. The National forces will be on the defensive along the west section of Hsiangyang and Fencheng. According to military circles, fighting will probably take place in the area between Tsochow and Kuotieh.

The Kwangsi War

Canton, Yesterday. General Li Yang-king, Commander of the 63rd Division, Chief of Staff Yung Yum-wan and Mr. Yang Ting-chung, Councillor of G. H. Q. returned to Canton yesterday morning from Wuchow. In a press interview, General Li said that the object of his trip was to inspect his newly-organised training regiment and also to attend to private affairs. Being asked as to the present situation of Kwangsi, the General replied that the Ironsides are now left with about 3,000 men, including followers and coolies, all of whom are either natives of Hunan or Shantung, as among the prisoners captured not long ago, not a single Cantonese was found. "According to the prisoners," continued the General, "all Kwangtung themselves were forced into the enemy's service as they had no money and were a long distance from their homes."

The Ironsides

"The Ironsides" and Kwangsi-ites, numbering about 10,000, are now concentrated along Kwelping and Kwelshien, on the north side of the West River, while the Canton forces are along the opposite bank of the river. "General Lui Woon-yim's loyal troops had greatly helped" the Canton forces in the capture of Pakiau and Watlam—which goes to prove that General Lui is still supporting the Central Government." The General concluded that, if hostilities broke out in the North, Yen Hsi-shan would certainly be defeated and that Feng Yu-hsiang's troops would be sacrificed in consequence.—Canton News Agency.

NAVAL BASE

Getting Ready for Next
Stage

WHARVES PROGRAMME

That work on the foundations of the wharves at the Naval Base, Seletar, would begin, according to the present programme, in about six months' time was the important announcement of Mr. Percy Westacott, Managing Director of Sir John Jackson's Ltd., (the contractors), who has arrived in Singapore in an interview with a Free Press representative. Mr. Westacott has just recently paid one of his periodical visits to Egypt to inspect the work in progress on the Nag Hamadi Barrage on the River Nile, a contract which will be completed this year, and took the opportunity this time to extend his journey as far as Malaya.

And what was perhaps more significant was Mr. Westacott's version of the factors controlling the future of the Naval Base, and his candidly expressed opinion of the "slowing down" policy, or, alternatively, the position at Seletar to-day.

Strategic Considerations
"I don't think any lay person can give an opinion as to what may happen in regard to the Naval Base," he declared, adding "in my opinion, its future is ruled strategically. I expect (he continued) there would have been a good deal of work, outside our province of course, contracted for, if it had not been for the Government's decision and I believe such work has possibly been suspended. But it is a sort of truce. Strictly speaking, of course, the work at the Base has been slowed down so that the Government's policy has been borne out in actual fact. But that is outside the work we have in hand. It is a politician's way of expressing himself I suppose," he said humorously, adding non-committally, "I don't know. Politics are a thing I don't enter into."

Answering a query as to what part of the Naval Base scheme he thought would be curtailed if curtailment it was to be as a result of the Naval Conference, Mr. Westacott said possibly they would decide to continue with the construction of the Base, "without the fortifications. In any case no decision had yet been arrived at as far as he knew—and he would receive information as to any decision or modification within a few hours, as he had to approve of it.

Like Factory Building
Discussing the work at the Naval Base, Mr. Westacott likened it to the building of a factory, preparatory to manufacturing the given article, in this case, the Base itself. The clearing of the ground, the excavation, the temporary works, transport, materials, facilities for quarrying stone, all constituted a part of the work of building the "factory," for, before these things had been done or provided, the "article" i.e., the large dry dock, the naval stores, basin and the north wharf, could not be "produced." All their work, until this began, was temporary. The construction of the Naval Base "factory" also included the hire of machinery, the equipment of the "workshops," if he could term it so.

"We at the present time have constructed our 'workshop,' our 'factory' should be completed in about six months' time, and then we shall begin producing the article."

Mr. Westacott said the contractor's power station, the completion of which, he agreed, would usher in a new era of activity at the Base, since, by its agency, all sorts of things would be set in motion, would be in running order though it would not be in full use for a few weeks. What with the dredges and the machinery the "factory" was getting more fully equipped.

It will be recalled that another important work in progress is the contractor's wharf at which the contractors will land all their materials, such as coal and cement. This, Mr. Westacott, disclosed, would be completed in about three weeks' time.

UNDERGRADUATE AT 63
Mr. Harry Paltin, who became an undergraduate of Oxford University when he was 63 has died at Oxford aged 69.

Mr. Paltin, on joining the university, was allowed to wear a scholar's gown but finding the gown too much, he gave up his hope of graduating at 63. Mr. Paltin had wide knowledge of old Oxford and Oxfordshire.

Gathering in Aid of Funds

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED

In connection with the gathering at the Peninsula Hotel on March 28, organised by the Hong Kong Women's Guild and Ministering Children's League the China Mail is informed that detailed arrangements have now been made.

The management of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Hotels, Limited, have kindly consented to grant the use of the public rooms in the Peninsula Hotel on the date in question. It has been arranged that the Thè Dausant will take place in the Rose Room, and that the Roof Garden will be set aside for mah jongg, whilst in the public dining room on the first floor there will be Bridge and whist. In connection with the latter there will be no progressive games, it being anticipated that players would prefer to make up their own parties. In the case of Bridge there will be prizes for the highest points obtained and also a "booby" prize. Three rubbers will be played, and a definite time fixed for the closure of play. In the case of whist, play will consist of eighteen hands, and here again prizes will be awarded to the highest and "booby" scores respectively.

The afternoon's programme will commence at 3.30 and continue until seven o'clock. Tea will be served in all rooms from 4.30 till 5 p.m. In connection with the Thè Dausant prizes will be given, the method of awarding being by a hidden spot on the floor.

At six o'clock an auction will be held, Mr. V. C. Labrum officiating. A sheep, signed football, and other novelties will be among the articles offered for sale. Bidding should be spirited.

A flat admission charge of $2 will be made, and visitors will be free to dance or play any of the table games as they desire.

CANTON'S GARDENS

Improvements on White
Cloud Mountain

Canton, Yesterday.
The public garden on White Cloud Mountain has undergone many improvements during recent months. The stone steps, some 800 odd, which start from Lim Chuen monastery to Ching Lung Bridge, have been reset. A 350 feet railing along Pak Po Tai has been constructed with concrete. At Ching Lung Bridge and half way up the Pak Po Tai, two pavilions have been added. Stone tables and benches are provided at different places for the convenience of the visitors. Other additions, as planting of trees, levelling of the roads, and laying out of fountains are also being attended to in order to make it a pleasure spot for the public.—Canton News Agency.

OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

LOCAL NEWS, CHINESE NEWS.

and all the NEWS.

The Weekly paper that saves you the trouble of writing Home.

The principal event of the week has been the annual meeting of the shareholders in the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation. As the greatest banking institution in the Orient the Chairman's annual review of the trade and commerce of the Colony and of the Far East in general is invariably keenly anticipated. This year's speech was no exception to the rule.

Additional interest was lent to this year's meeting by the official intimation of the resignation of the Chief Manager, the Hon. Mr. A. H. Hynes, who has not only been a pillar of finance, but a staunch supporter of all commercial, social, and sporting institutions in the Colony for twelve years.

Friends and relatives in the Mother Country and in British Possessions overseas will treasure this week's issue of the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL.

There have been four days' Racing Carnival, including the Derby and the Champions, with their mammoth cash sweeps. The meeting is specially reported in the current issue of the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL, which also contains full lists of sweeps organised by the principal Clubs.

China, as usual, commands attention by reason of the fresh clash among the Northern war lords. Special telegrams and articles in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL provide interesting reading to those at Home who have been out here themselves or who have relatives and friends here.

All the other local news of importance finds a place in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL. As no second edition can be printed it is advisable to order your copies forthwith.

Letters to relatives and friends in other parts of the world frequently fail to be written even by the most ardent correspondents. It is a kindly thought, therefore, to ensure that those away from the Colony, or folks at Home, should have an unfailing supply of Hong Kong and Chinese news every week—by means of a subscription to the "Overland China Mail."

For your folks at Home to receive this weekly budget, or to keep yourself posted with affairs during your absence, all that you need do is to drop a note to the "Overland China Mail."

The word "Overland" is a reminder of the experience behind the production, it having been published since the early days of the Colony, to be sent OVERLAND because there was no Suez Canal, and that was the quickest route by which to get mail Home. In the march of time the "Overland China Mail" has become the only weekly news budget which has a coloured pictorial supplement with local photographs. It's made just to people with any interest whatsoever in Hong Kong, and all along. What more could be desired?

EMPRESS OF JAPAN

Luxury Liner Coming to Hong Kong

26,000 TONS

Largest C.P.R. Boat on Pacific Run

REGULAR SCHEDULE

The C.P.R. s.s. Empress of Japan which was launched on December 17, 1929, is the largest and fastest steamship engaged in regular traffic on the Pacific Ocean—and also one of the most modern and sumptuous liners in the world. Painted in glistening white, a blue ribbon beading her main deck, she will arouse deep enthusiasm not only in her owners, but also in the shipping and travelling public. She will, before taking up her position on the Pacific, make one round trip on the Atlantic—leaving Liverpool on June 14 and leaving Quebec for Southampton on June 24. From Southampton she will proceed to Hong Kong on July 12, making her first voyage from Hong Kong on August 7 and from Vancouver on September 4. Thereafter she will maintain a regular schedule, calling at Honolulu, Yokohama, Kobe, Shanghai, Hong Kong, and Manila. On the east-bound service she omits Honolulu and calls at Victoria.

The Empress of Japan is a three-funnelled twin-screw oil-burner of 26,000 tons. Her propelling machinery consists of geared turbine engines, developing an average sea speed of 21 knots. The principal dimensions are:—length (overall) 666 feet; breadth, 87 feet; depth "A" deck, 56 feet. By comparison, the Empress of Canada, at present the largest Canadian Pacific ship on the Pacific run, has a tonnage of 21,517 tons. There are six decks, running forward and aft and lettered from "A" to "F". The superstructure consists of boat and promenade decks—each over 300 feet in length—topped by the navigating bridge which, 68 feet above the load water-line, is the most up-to-date and complete of its kind. The Empress of Japan will have a carrying capacity of 400 first, 164 second, 100 third class and 548 Asiatic steerage passengers. Accommodation for first class passengers is on boat "A" and "B" decks, for second class passengers on "B" and "C" decks, and for third class passengers on "D" deck. The second class cabins on "B" deck can on occasion be rapidly converted into first class staterooms.

A Luxury Liner

The ornamental designs and costly furnishings of the public rooms, the majority of which are located on the promenade deck, immediately place the Empress of Japan in the front rank of luxury liners. The decorators, realising that a great number of her days will be spent in warm climates, have favoured cool, fresh colours, and avoided the use of too warm furniture coverings.

The lofty walls of the public rooms are mostly of untouched or merely waxed wood, which enables the natural beauty of the grain to act as a main decorative motive. A fine example of this "nature" treatment, which has also been carried out in the de luxe suites and special staterooms, is the lofty, glass-domed lounge in pale mountain ash and walnut. Characteristic here, as in all the public rooms on the Empress of Japan, is the wealth of light obtained by day from large windows and domes, and by night from a maze of electric light effects.

Natural oak enriched with gliding takes the place of ash in the spacious palm court, or ballroom, at the foremost end of the promenade deck. It is open on three sides—port, forward and starboard—to wide sea views seen through broad windows half screened by palms and flowers. The electric lighting concealed in the richly decorated ceiling is capable of instantaneous colour changes.

A warmer note is struck in the genial smoking room, where the island teak floor and walnut skirting contrast with a specially selected light-grained mahogany, which is studded with bronze nails to obtain a trellis effect. An outstanding feature is the monumental chimney-piece of carved Roman stone, crowned with a cut-glass overmantel.

The Long Gallery

The long gallery, communicating aft with the smoking room and forward with the palm court, on the port side of the promenade deck, is simply executed in ash and walnut. Glass doors lead amidships into the main entrance hall, one of the most important spaces on the Empress of Japan. The shop, attractively designed with colonnades, occupies a central position facing the sweeping staircase panelled in ash and walnut, and flanked by massive carved balustrades. Telephone boxes are installed, revolving doors lead on to the open deck, and passengers lift speedily and comfortably in a glass-enclosed lift.

In a side room, the most sumptuous and comfortable of the ship, the dining room, there are two de luxe salons, with a large, high-ceilinged, light-filled room, fitted with bedstead special staterooms with bath—and 28 one-bedstead and 106 two-bedstead ordinary staterooms. Inter-communicating telephones are installed in the de luxe suites and special staterooms. The special staterooms are decorated alternatively in walnut with satin wood enrichments, Quebec birch and black bean.

The suites are the last word in luxury appointments. The bedrooms are panelled in delicate olive wood, the furniture is covered with creamy purple damask, and the twin beds of unusual design are recessed. Decorative landscapes in tones of pearly grey distinguish the comfortable sitting-rooms, while the tiled floor, flower boxes, and huge expanse of windows give the verandah a distinctly fresh and cool appearance.

Other Features

Very generous promenade space has been provided on the Empress of Japan for all classes. First class passengers will have a promenade area of 31,000 square feet. This includes the long, covered promenade deck, the boat deck, and, on top of the house on the last named, the large sports or sun deck.

A large up-to-date barber's shop and a ladies' hairdressing saloon fitted with the latest electric equipment are situated on "A" deck, immediately below the promenade deck. On the same deck are two manicuring or chiropody saloons, a photographer's dark room, and the surgery and dispensary. In the central hall are the company's offices, ticket agent and pursers' room, information bureau, stenographers' room, and a private office.

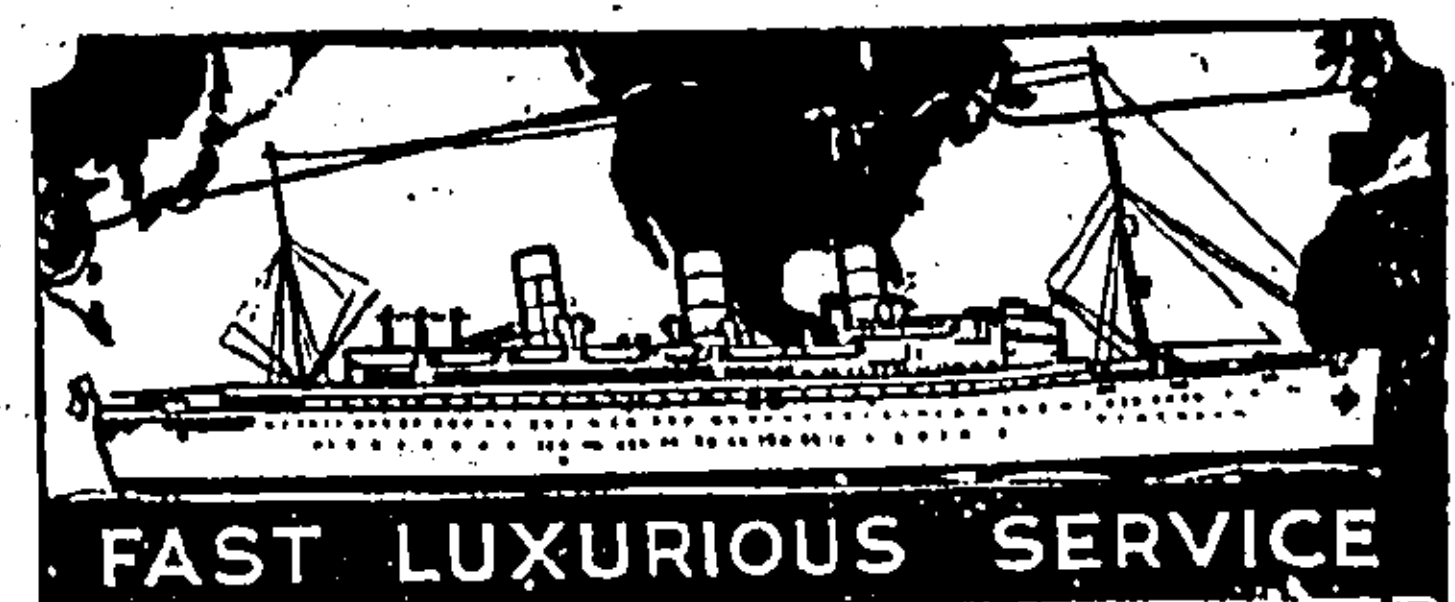

Boats are ample for the full number of passengers and crew, and are slung on twenty sets of davits. Two motor boats and two small emergency boats are also included.

All the electric appliances on board will be as comprehensive and perfect as modern science can make them. They include, to name only a few, wireless telegraphy, direction finding and submarine signalling apparatus, electric sounding machines, gyro-compass equipment and clear view screens orchestra and gramophone repeater installation, cinema apparatus, and an extensive telephone system. The electric lighting, heating, cooking, and power installations, of latest type throughout, will be developed to a degree hitherto unattained on any first class liner.

Propelling Machinery

This vessel will be propelled by twin screws, each actuated by a set of single reduction-geared turbines. These are of Parsons' latest type, consisting of h.p. i.p. and l.p. units in series, designed to employ steam at a working pressure of 375 lb. superheated to a temperature of 700 deg. F. The boiler installation comprises six high pressure water tube boilers of the Yarrow type and two Scotch boilers. The water tube boilers are designed for a pressure of 425 lb., and will operate under forced and induced draught; the Scotch boilers are designed for a pressure of 200 lb., and will work under forced draught. All boilers are arranged to burn oil fuel only.

With one or two minor exceptions, the whole of the auxiliary machinery is electrically driven, power being supplied by four 300 k.w. diesel generators and/or two 600 k.w. turbo generators.

FAST LUXURIOUS SERVICE

—to America
and Europe

TRAVELLERS bound for America or Europe avail themselves of speedy and comfortable service when they go Canadian Pacific.

The White Empresses are the largest, newest and fastest liners on the Pacific. They cross from Yokohama to Vancouver in 9 days; from Shanghai to Vancouver in 14.

These ships connect with the summer trains, "Trans-Canada Limited" and "Mountaineer," at Vancouver, enabling passengers to make the earliest sailing of a Canadian Pacific Atlantic liner.

STILL WATERS

Sir Cecil Clementi is commencing his term of service in Loss Malaya under very unusual and exacting conditions, for his chief lieutenant in the Straits is new to the country, he is losing the executive head of the F.M.S. Government, and the Under-Secretary of the latter Government has accepted the Governorship of British North Borneo, says the Straits Times. Moreover, adds our contemporary, there is a rumour that the Colony may lose the services of Mr. George Hemmatt. Thus Malaya enters upon an anxious phase of its financial and commercial history—with all administrative programmes inevitably affected by the rubber and tin outlook—under the guiding hand of a new Governor and High Commissioner who himself must rely upon new assistants.

It is perhaps a Assurance for matter for Hong Kong sympathy that Sir Cecil should learn the news of Sir William Peel's impending departure a week after his arrival, but surely no greater proof of the trust placed in his ability by the Colonial Office could have been forthcoming. In congratulating Sir William Peel on having attained one of the highest distinctions of the Colonial Service, and also the service which is honoured by the Government, we (Straits Times) cannot but feel that the loss of Sir William Peel is a great loss to the F.M.S. Government. Sir William Peel was a man of high character and high ability, and his services to the F.M.S. Government were of the highest order. He was a man of high character and high ability, and his services to the F.M.S. Government were of the highest order. He was a man of high character and high ability, and his services to the F.M.S. Government were of the highest order.

Remarkable, stating the different points he has filled. Chiefly in the Straits, the paper in question continues. Ordinarily Sir William would have been assigned to India at the end of January under the age limit rule, but it was announced shortly before his departure that he was to be transferred to Malaya. Sir William Peel was a man of high character and high ability, and his services to the F.M.S. Government were of the highest order. He was a man of high character and high ability, and his services to the F.M.S. Government were of the highest order.

in the F.M.S. Our sister Colony of Hong Kong may rest assured that her affairs will be in very able hands.

One of the papers Age Not a in Malaya asserts Guide that the appointment of Sir William Peel to be Governor of Hong Kong must come as a surprise "because it was scarcely expected that his 33 years' service in Malaya would be so handsomely rewarded by the Colonial Office calling upon him to carry on for a further period in one of the most senior governorships in the Colonies." Sir William closed his 55th year on January 27 and in the ordinary course he would, like Sir George Maxwell, have been summarily axed under the age limit. By a stroke of good fortune the powers that be in Downing Street have, at least in this instance, been able to realise that although the age limit of 55 may be taken as a fair indication of superannuation it is never a reliable guide for hard and fast application in the Colonies generally.

The retirement of Sir George Maxwell at 55, we are told, aroused a howl of indignation in Malaya because it was realised that Sir George was still full of vigour at that age, quite apart from the rich experience he had accumulated in Malaya that was ruthlessly turned to waste at a time when Malaya most needed an able administrator of his type. The 55 years' rule has been roundly criticised ever since then and no more convincing proof of the unfairness of applying this rule in a hard and fast manner can be afforded than in the case of Sir William Peel who still possesses many years of useful service that he can render to the Empire.

After enumerating the different points he has filled, the paper in question continues. Ordinarily Sir William would have been assigned to India at the end of January under the age limit rule, but it was announced shortly before his departure that he was to be transferred to Malaya. Sir William Peel was a man of high character and high ability, and his services to the F.M.S. Government were of the highest order. He was a man of high character and high ability, and his services to the F.M.S. Government were of the highest order.

to succeed Sir Cecil Clementi. The paper thinks that the experience gained in Chinese affairs largely accounts for Sir William's selection for Hong Kong. Looking through the Colonial Office list it is a singular coincidence that no other Colonial Governor of to-day except Sir Reginald Stubbs, who once served in Hong Kong, possesses any experience of the Chinese people.

Many amusing Sir Henry anecdotes are told Gompertz of the late Sir Henry Gompertz, says a Penang paper. Here is one taken from the letter of a reader. The incident occurred shortly after Sir Henry had assumed his appointment as Chief Justice, F.M.S. It so happened that a Chinese contractor was called in to do some carpentry work and after explaining what was required Sir Henry asked what it would cost. A lengthy discussion then arose in Chinese between the contractor and his assistant. Said one to the other: "We must ask more than the correct price, so that we can bargain." Surprise, if not horror, was their portion when Sir Henry, speaking fluent Chinese, asked them to tell him the correct price without more ado. A nasty shock, that!

News in Brief

H.M.S. Kent is expected to return to Hong Kong on March 12.

Judgment will be delivered on Monday by the Full Court of Appeal in connection with the Sir Paul Chater Will case.

Information has been received in the Colony that six cases of smallpox have been reported at Tainan, south-west of Formosa.

The forthcoming wedding is announced of Mr. A. Ernest Chapman, Sergeant of the Hong Kong Police Force, to Miss Winifred Jessie Mold, of 78, Rectory Road, Clapham, London.

Three men carried out a daring daylight armed robbery on the first floor of 93, Apiti Street, Shamshui-po, yesterday and got away with a pair of gold mounted rattan bangles worth $20. They gained admission to the flat under the pretext that they were friends on a visit.

At the China Auction Rooms yesterday, Hinghom Island, Lot No. 161, situated at 4, Station Lane, was sold to Mr. Lo Fook-tong for $4,200. The land has an area of about 750 sq. feet and its annual rental is $10. Another piece of land known as Inland Lot No. 2060 was to have been offered at the same time but the sale was postponed for a week.

Dr. Alexander Cannon, Medical Officer in charge of Prisons and Victoria Mortuary, is retiring from the Government service on April 12. He will also resign his Teachership in Moral Anatomy at the University.

It is understood that Dr. Cannon is going to the University of London. With Mrs. Cannon and Wendy, he sails for London on the s.s. Malwa. Dr. Cannon has been in the Hong Kong Government service for three years.

A Chinese sampan girl was killed yesterday afternoon by being knocked into the hold of the boat by a falling of cargo while the boat was being loaded at Kowloon godowns. The mishap occurred shortly before three o'clock, and the girl was immediately rushed to the Kowloon Hospital by Revenue Officer Powell in his private car, but on arrival at the hospital life was found to be extinct, and the body was taken to the Kowloon mortuary.

Good Wishes of the Colony

SERVICES APPRECIATED

The following messages have been exchanged between the Officer Administering the Colony and the O.C., K.O.S.B.:

From O.A.G. Hong Kong, To Major Crane, O.C., K.O.S.B., H.M. Transport, City of Marseilles. Dated February 26, 1930.

On behalf of the whole Colony, I desire to thank you and your Regiment for your services to Hong Kong, to express our regret at your departure, and to wish you all a pleasant voyage and the best of good fortune in the future.

From O.A.G. Hong Kong, To Major Crane, O.C., K.O.S.B., H.M. Transport, City of Marseilles. Dated February 26, 1930.

Received (per s.s. Rawalpindi): February 28, 1930.

Very many thanks for your gracious cable. Please thank the whole Colony for their unfailing kindness and hospitality to the battalion during our three years' stay and for the magnificent send-off which will be an unforgettable memory to all ranks.

HOME POLITICS

United Empire Party Opposed

COLONIAL VIEW?

London, Yesterday.

The Conservatives are opposed strongly to the recently formed United Empire Party.

Last night Mr. Ormsby-Gore, who was Colonial Under-Secretary in the late Government, said that in no circumstances could he join the Party or support its policy. The great Dominions were determined to become industrial manufacturing countries and were no longer content to be regarded merely as producers of raw materials, and they would not tolerate outside interference.

As to the Colonies, he pointed out that in Ceylon, Rhodesia, Cyprus, Malta, Bermuda, the Barbadoes, Jamaica and British Honduras, the determination of fiscal policy rested with the official members of the local legislatures, and not with the Colonial Office; but even in the more directly controlled Colonies, there would be most dire results and reactions, if, by Government action at home, the wishes of the local inhabitants were over-ruled.

Free trade within the Empire in the new party's sense of the term would destroy the free port of Singapore within a year. Such a policy was impossible for British Malaya, whose trade was in rubber and tin, which could produce no food for itself, and must trade with all the world. The same consideration applied to the Gold Coast, which provided half the world's supply of cocoa.

Any future imperial trade policy must, in his view, follow the example of many of the Dominions in making specific mutual arrangements limited to two or more individual parts of the Empire.

An Editor Resigns

The editor of the well-known political and literary weekly, the Sunday Review, Mr. Gerald Barry, has resigned, in consequence of the paper having been committed by its board of directors in support of the United Empire Party.

The entire editorial staff and controllers have followed the editor's example—British Wireless Service.

BRITISH SHIPS

Able to Meet Foreign Competition

London, Yesterday.

The Security Company states that the industry in the past two years has been steadily consolidating its position and has been able to meet foreign competition. The British shipbuilding industry is now building over fifty per cent of the world's tonnage, but the shipbuilding problem is gradually becoming more and more acute each year owing to curtailment in warship building.

A number of shipbuilding firms have closed down in recent years, but there is still too large a volume of capacity. The situation is more difficult because the average size of merchant ships has steadily risen in recent years and a smaller number of berths is now required for the same quantity of tonnage.

The Security Company believes that the elimination of redundant capacity will eventually create more employment, instead of less, owing to the ability to engage even more successfully in world competition.

ROUND THE CINEMAS

Street Scene Wrecked for "Marianne"

AT QUEEN'S TO-DAY

Instead of building sets for exterior scenes in "Marianne," which opens to-day at the Queen's Theatre as a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all-talking feature starring Marlon Davies, the property man wrecked an entire street scene instead.

The new picture has a locale of post-war France and the wrecking work was done to give the street realistic atmosphere for the romantic comedy action.

In the picture Miss Davies plays the part of a French peasant girl who falls in love with a doughboy, a role played by Lawrence Gray, New York stage favourite.

Robert Z. Leonard directed the picture with Cliff Edwards, Benny Rubin, Robert Castle and others of note in the supporting cast.

INDIAN FINANCE

Fresh Sources of Taxation

New Delhi, Yesterday.

Sir George Schuster, the Finance Member, has presented to the Assembly a most important budget, proposing fresh sources of taxation to permit the Government of India more greatly to assist the provinces and enable them to work on reforms.

The new taxes include the cotton piece goods duty increased from eleven to fifteen per cent, an additional protective duty of five per cent on non-British cotton goods, and a three-year silver duty of fourpence an ounce.

The excise duty on kerosene is raised from one anna to one anna and six pies; the import duty on kerosene is reduced from two annas and six pies to two annas and three pies.

The import duty on sugar is raised by one rupee and eight annas per hundredweight.

The income tax on incomes of fifteen thousand rupees and upwards is raised by one pie in the rupee; and the super tax is correspondingly raised, except the flat rate super tax on companies.

A full rebate on the silver duty is allowed for re-export of silver.

The additional protective duty on non-British cotton goods is subject to the approval of the Assembly.

The new taxes will produce a surplus of seventy lakhs. A loan of 23½ crores in India is fore-shadowed, of which 7.4 crores will be new money—Reuter.

[A crore is ten millions, or one hundred lakhs.]

LUNGSHAN MISHAP

Collision with the Tintat

Canton, Yesterday.

A collision between the Canton-Hong Kong steamer Lungshan and the Tintat took place at Tai Shek, which is about an hour's distance from Canton. It appears that owing to shallow water, the Lungshan was stranded, and while in that position she was bumped into by the Tintat, which, coming down with the tide, was unable to pass her. Both boats vibrated with the shock of the collision. The Lungshan's railings were damaged about 20 feet in length. The Tintat is reported to have been holed about eight square inches in the bulkhead.

Silver Bullion Cargo

The fifth shipment of silver bullion amounting to half a million ounces, arrived here yesterday by the Lungshan. The present daily output of the mint is more than $100,000 in 20 cent pieces. In order to increase the output, Mr. Fan Kee-mo is contemplating to put on a double shift at the mint, so as to meet the full redemption of the Central Bank notes at the earliest date.—Canton News Agency.

Ten Years Ago

(From the "China Mail," March 1, 1920)

To-day's dollar is worth 8/8½d.

A serious accident which resulted in 34 persons being injured occurred at the Tung Wah Hospital yesterday, when the iron railing of the staircase suddenly collapsed. It brought down with it part of the staircase and balcony, and 34 persons, out of a crowd of Chinese, who were waiting on the stairs at the time. A drop of 30 feet resulted in 15 persons being seriously injured, and they had to be immediately removed to various wards in another part of the building.

The WOMAN'S Page

MODERN GIRL

"Still Charming and Modest"

Mr. Alfred Sutro, the playwright, lecturing at the Working Men's College, Crowndale Road, London, on January 25, on "Plays Moral and Immoral," said that, taking "Journey's End" as an example, the stage to-day could not be said to be decadent.

"The words, moral, morality, morals, are dull words. They call up images of vigilance societies and old ladies protesting at mixed bathing and bishops deploring Sunday football.

"Sex at the moment bulks largely in literature and in drama. In the early Victorian days it was adored and worshipped. To-day it is ruthlessly desecrated and analysed—psycho-analysed.

"In our advanced plays and novels the girl of to-day is depicted as a harum-scarum hysterical creature whose life is one long round of cocktails and dissipation.

"This seems to me to be rather a shame. I confess to a great deal of admiration for the modern girl. She wears her hair and dresses short, and I hope she will continue to do so.

"The girl of to-day can more or less go where she pleases, work where she pleases, see whom she pleases, and wear what she pleases, and I maintain that she has forfeited none of the charm and modesty which were her characteristics in the past.

Cock-Shy of the Hour
"Marriage, of course, is the favourite cock-shy of the hour. Indeed, it has almost ceased to be funny. Philosophers of the eminence of Bertrand Russell have made marriage out to be an effete institution, and certainly, at least in America, the liberty with which divorces are handed out is somewhat undermining its foundations.

"And yet, whatever the future may have in store, though divorce may be obtained at every grocer's shop, though marriage itself may become obsolete, the last woman in

FASHION'S DECREE

Paris "dress dictators" have issued their decree regarding women's attire for the immediate future. Frocks, they say, shall be longer in the evening but remain short for day wear.

Now, we are compelled to suspect that these "dictators" are not really dictating at all, that the horse has got the bit between her teeth and means to keep it there. In other words, the young woman of 1930 has got her own way in this direction as well as in a good many others. It looks uncommonly like a heavy defeat for the fashion dictators' forces.

They have, of course, retreated in good order and issued their decree with great show of all their old imperiousness, but the fact remains, and is likely to do so for some time, that young women are neither going to be driven nor coaxed to curtailing the distance between the skirt and ground.

The short skirt has, it appears, ceased to be a part of fashion that is subject to change. It has become the badge of the new freedom of women—a freedom that they don't intend to lose again.

GLASS FURNITURE

It is becoming quite a craze, and it comes from France. Glass furniture. Yes, even dining-tables and chairs, and so on. All glass. You can have it in plain glass, frosted glass, or coloured glass. And the plates may be glass too. Must be a queer effect to see through things like that.

the world will go on loving the man who is the father of her children. You may do away with marriage; you will never, so long as women continue to be mothers, do away with the wife.

"No objection can ever be taken to the theme of a play, novel, or picture. Every theme is legitimate; there is no subject under the sun which is denied to the artist, whatever the field he works in. What the public and the critics are for the moment concerned with is his treatment of that subject."

KISSING

With or Without a Moustache?

An unsigned, uninitialled article in a London paper reads:

I suppose people love to believe in the wholly unreasonable. They used to make a point of believing in witches. Now they believe in anything which calls itself scientific. These sad reflections on the folly of human nature are drawn from me by some man of science in America who has been investigating the effects of kisses.

The investigation of kissing is a splendid example of magical science. The purpose was to discover what effect the kisses of different types of men had on women. As you doubtless remark, the idea is sufficiently absurd. We talk conveniently of a type of man, but in fact there is no type.

In an early story of Mr. Kipling's one rather vulgar young woman confides to another that being kissed by a man who does not wax his moustache is like eating an egg without salt. That, I suppose, is a type of man—the waxed-moustache type. But it is extinct, it belongs to palaeontology now. For who can wax a toothbrush?

One of the grand results of the American investigation was, however, to prove that a kiss from a man with a moustache has not the same effect as a kiss from a man without. You may wonder how they got at that. By what scientific process a girl is reduced to the impartial condition in which she can receive, prepared to be equally responsive, a kiss from a clean-shaven or a hirsute lip I do not know.

"Without Prejudice"

The girls who received these kisses, let us believe, approached the matter wholly without prejudice. But that destroys any possible value in the inquiry. For the only kisses that can be of any interest are those taken and given in a prejudiced condition.

Once upon a time promiscuous kissing was the general rule in Britain. Erasmus remarked on it with expressions of warm satisfaction. But it is not upon record that he suffered or inflicted any individual fascination. The kisses, in fact, meant nothing in particular.

The American investigator had some magical method of estimating the amount of emotional disturbances produced by each kiss. And his scale is curious. The kiss shortened the life of the kissed by so many seconds.

How does our American investigator know that his apparatus in measuring a loss of life was not actually recording a stimulus which meant increased and prolonged vigour.

No Faith in Apparatus

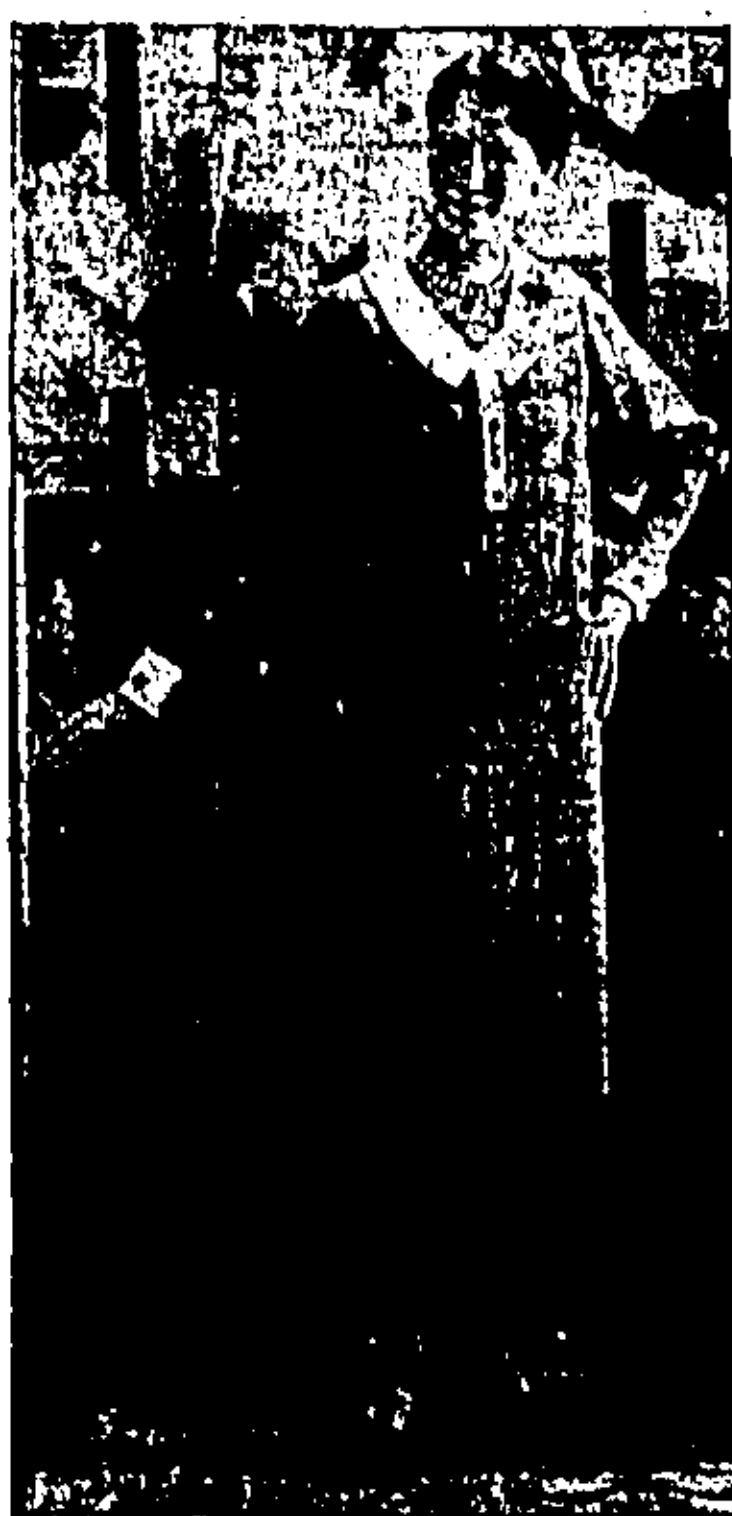

But I have no sort of faith in these apparatus which measure excitement or emotion. Let us allow that when we are in a state of tension our bodies can betray it by heart beats or their influence on an electric current or any physical means the laboratory pleases. What is that to the purpose?

Excitement is not necessarily an index to feeling. I do not mean that some people are more easily excited than others, though, of course, that is true, and it destroys the usefulness of all attempts to calculate the effect of emotional stimulus, because what works upon one does not stir another. But I am thinking of the very different causes which can produce physical excitement in the same person.

Many of us, including the equable and the wise, are at times strongly affected by trifles. The apparatus of the psychological

NEW GOLF FASHION

London, January 27.

Women are already adopting the new tweedknit golf fashion, which is as smart as it is practical, and which is creating such interest at Debenhams and Freebody's, Wigmore Street. Golfing suits in this new fabric are lighter and more flexible than tweed although hardly distinguishable from it. A plain cardigan and wrap skirt costs 73s. 6d., while the suit, in which the coat has revers or is three-quarter-length, is 84s. 6d. The dresses in the same fabric are charming and useful under a light spring coat. Barrets of fleecy wool are suggested to go with the suits.

At the Civil Service Supply Association, household linens are attractively reduced, while the fashion sections and high-grade fur department have some very good things to sell at greatly reduced prices.

Coloured bed-linen is becoming increasingly popular, and the all-wool coloured blankets in various shades, size 60 inches by 80 inches, which are to be sold in the sale at 11s. 9d., are an interesting example of the many bargains offered.

Panama lacque, a very light and adaptable spring straw, can be found in the silver-grey millinery salon at Selfridge's, where hundreds of new models have arrived by air from Paris.

Bakou is expected to be the most popular straw for "second-best," it was stated, while there are also delightful mixed straws that match the fashionable tweeds. There are, too, the ever-popular felts, which may now be regarded as an all-the-year-round vogues.

laboratory might record stronger excitement when the telephone had been playing the fool with you than when you were kissed.

WOMAN'S THOUGHTS

Following the Crowd

Mary MacLeod Moore writes in the London Daily Telegraph:—

At a time when great stress is laid upon the freedom of the individual, more especially of the modern woman at last relieved of the yoke which her champions consider has pressed upon her far too long, one hardly dares to wonder if we are as free as we think.

In the matter of dress alone few of us are free women. The fear of being odd is one influence behind a more or less standardised style of dress, it is true; but it is also true that the steady, silent pressure of advertisement, of suggestion, have something to do with our obedience in the matter.

General Trend

Moreover, only the rich woman, as a rule, can dress in a style of her own, to express her own personality. The majority would be vanquished in the fight for originality by the designer, the dressmaker, the wholesaler, and the retailer.

How many of us are absolutely free in our reading? Not that many books are under the ban of the censor, but simply because public opinion ordains that certain books must be read, and we read them. Partly because we are tired of saying that we have not read the much praised work, and find it easier to go with the tide.

Certain authors owe much to these unknown friends—the people who go about asking if you have read so-and-so, and apparently have no peace of mind until the answer is in the affirmative. The chosen few know if that particular book suits the mind and bent of the person in question; the others recommend what they like regardless

SPRING COLOURINGS

London, January 27.

Shopping assumes a new interest for women this week, for many early models from the Spring collections have already arrived, and the millinery, sports wear and other fashion departments are displaying new modes and new colourings. Smart, practical and becoming, these fashions are likely to make a great appeal to the popular taste.

On the other hand, there are still many bargains to be found, one store, indeed, starting its sale today.

Harrods are displaying many delightful modes for both sportsmen and women and holiday-makers off to the Riviera. The latest sports hat, straight from Paris, is in a new featherweight fabric—mousseline-racelle—which is wonderfully light to wear and very becoming. The guinea shoes, of which this shop makes a speciality, may be in pig-skin and crocodile to tone with the fashionable tweeds, or black patent for afternoon wear.

Some of the latest Paris fabrics used in the new models suggest the countryside in spring. These are among the advance collection which can now be seen at Jay's, Oxford Circus. Spring blossoms inspire intriguing patterns in the new Rodier, Blanchini, and Meyer fabrics. Other patterns suggest the sky, the changing sea, and the woodlands.

At this time of the year, when many people are considering redecoration of their houses, it is very helpful to be able to see various rooms and halls artistically decorated and furnished, such as are displayed by Schoolbrod's, Tottenham Court Road. It greatly facilitates the choice of accessories for a particular room, and gives good ideas for furnishing.

This firm is also offering this week 2,000 pairs of the Bemberg synthetic silk hose. These include all fashionable colours and sizes, and although in the ordinary way priced at 6s. 11d., are being offered at 4s. 6d. a pair.

DAINTY TABLE

Counts Much in Entertaining

Whether or not your dinner party is a success may depend largely upon the appearance of the table. The discriminating hostess is as much concerned with the proper setting for her food as with its preparation, and if the service is lacking in any respect her self-consciousness is likely to be transmitted to her guests.

In preparing for the dinner party make sure that your dishes and your glassware are shining with cleanliness. Wash them in hot soapwater and rinse them in clear hot water. It will take only a few minutes of your time. Select your daintiest linens and your finest silverware. To brighten the silverware immerse the pieces in hot, soapy water, rinse them and dry each piece thoroughly.

Before placing the silver on the table wash your hands thoroughly and handle the pieces carefully, so as to avoid leaving fingerprints. When everything is as dainty as you can make it set a bowl of flowers in the centre of the table; then slip into your most becoming gown and you will feel free to concentrate on the entertainment of your guests.

ACTIVITIES OF THE K.R.A.

Reviewed at Annual Meeting
MUNICIPALITY MOOTED

At the annual meeting of the Kowloon Residents' Association last night, at St. Andrew's Church Hall, Mr. C. M. Manners, the retiring President, reviewed the work done during the year, commenting in particular upon the impetus given to the development of Kowloon during the administration of Sir Cecil Clementi.

Mr. W. J. Stokes, who has been a member of the Association for the past eight years, was presented with a silver model of an antique incense burner, and was elected a life member of the Association.

THE YEAR'S WORK

Before proceeding with the business of the meeting, the secretary referred to a letter received by the chairman from the Hon. Dr. S. W. Ts'o in which he congratulated the members of the committee on the very useful year's work done. He regretted that owing to pressing engagements he was unable to be present.

The Chairman then asked those present to stand in silence as a token of respect for the late Mr. Lai Im-to, who died during his term of office on the committee. The President reviewed the work of the past year at length and proposed the adoption of the report and accounts.

Chinese Views

Mr. Mow Fung in seconding the adoption of the report, said:

It gives me much pleasure to second the adoption of the report and accounts for the past year. I am sure we have all listened with great interest to the President's speech, and none but the rankest pessimist will disagree with his portrayal of the bright prospects which Kowloon holds for the future.

I am pleased to endorse generally the views expressed by him, but there are one or two points on which I would like to make a little comment.

With reference to Hon. Dr. Ts'o, I am closely associated with this gentleman in connection with a certain public service and can from personal knowledge say that he takes a keen interest in all matters affecting the welfare of Kowloon and as he is the only Chinese member on the Legislative Council residing in Kowloon, it naturally follows that he would be consulted with reference to Kowloon matters.

On the subject of the work of the Playing Fields Committee, I look forward to seeing in the Committee's report which will doubtless be published before long, recommendations for the immediate provision of adequate playing grounds for the poorer residents; I refer to the class represented by the youths who have recently been appearing before the Kowloon Magistrate on charges of playing football and trick cycling in the streets. While entirely agreeing that such games in the public streets must be prohibited, I cannot too strongly urge the necessity for proper facilities being provided to encourage open air recreation among the residents of the congested districts. The conversion of the typhoon shelter parapet opposite Saigon Street in Yau-mat into a promenade is a right step in this direction.

Another point is the question of a separate Police Station for the Kowloon Tong District, which I am sorry to see the Government has shelved for the time being. I am not a resident of Kowloon Tong nor have I any vested interests therein; but I am extremely well acquainted with the locality, and I say without hesitation that the policing of Kowloon Tong, surrounded as it is with country areas which are partly or non-developed, cannot be effectively or efficiently carried out from the Kowloon City Police Station nor from the Mongkok Police Station, and it is to be hoped that the Government will give this matter urgent attention.

Before I sit down, I would draw special attention to the annoyance caused to residents in the vicinity of Signal Hill by the firing of salutes. The President has evidently forgotten to mention this matter and I am sure that all members of the Association will agree that the time has come when these signal guns should be removed to a more suitable location.

Mr. Chairman, I beg to second the adoption of the report and accounts. The adoption of the report and accounts has been proposed by the Chairman, Mr. Mow Fung, in seconding, made a proposal for the provision of recreational facilities for the poorer residents of Kowloon. Another point to be stressed was the provision of a separate Police Station for Kowloon Tong. The report and accounts for the past year were adopted. Mr. Mow Fung, seconded Mr. Stokes' acceptance of the silver model of an antique incense burner, and the

with the following words, "Presented to W. J. Stokes, Esq., President, Kowloon Residents' Association, by the General Committee on his retirement, February 27, 1930."

Captain T. T. Laurensen, in seconding, said that he and Mr. Stokes had worked together in perfect harmony for about nine years.

Mr. Stokes's Reply

In replying, Mr. Stokes said: I find it very difficult to thank you adequately for this handsome present, showing as it does your kindness of heart.

I think it would be far easier to find reasons why none should be given, for, although, in common with every member of this Committee, what I have been able to do has been a labour of love of great interest and a mine of experience, I fear it must be admitted that my share does not amount to a very great deal when taken by itself.

I have, from the first, been greatly interested in the developments of the Star Ferry Circus. My other special interest was in improving the lighting of the more important streets and, in this case at any rate, I have seen very great progress. I want to stress the fact of the real team work that is consistently done by your Committee, composed, as it is, of men of at least three nationalities and as many religions and representing nearly every branch of human activity: clergymen, merchants, sailors, engineers and journalists, each with his special knowledge to be used for the common good. These gentlemen take their jobs very seriously and I know of no Society or Committee where the attendance at meetings is so consistently full.

The natural outcome of this is that the mere glint of any idea has only to be expressed by one to be eagerly helped out by the more specialised mind of another and passed back again in a more workable form, with some of its more awkward corners rubbed off and ready for further polishing. Thus is progress made and I put it to you, Gentlemen, as forcefully as I can that the more support your Committee gets the better work will it be able to do.

In conclusion, I want to express to you, my colleagues, my very deep appreciation of your kindly good wishes, of which this is a token and another reminder (if that were necessary) of our long association in what we honestly think is good and useful work. It makes a hard parting a bit harder and I hope the weekly paper to which I propose to subscribe will never omit, owing to pressure on its space, the monthly report of the K.R.A.

New Officials

In proposing the Rev. J. Horace Johnston as President of the Association for the ensuing year, Mr. Manners said that Mr. Johnston had previously been President during 1926. Although it was a departure from the usual custom to elect a past President, he thought that the work of the Association would progress under the able guidance of Mr. Johnston with his past experience.

Mr. E. Cock seconded and the motion was carried.

Mr. Johnston, in reply, thanked the Association for the honour conferred upon him, and in turn, proposed the election of Mr. F. C. Mow Fung as Vice-President.

Mr. Terry seconded the motion which was approved.

Other Officers

Mr. E. Abraham was re-elected as hon. treasurer.

Mr. C. E. Terry was re-elected hon. secretary.

Following were elected to the general committee: Lieut-Col. Matthews, the Rev. W. W. Rogers, J. M. Alves, F. G. Brown, E. Cock, F. N. Crapnell, F. G. Easterbrook, W. Goldenberg, Li Jow-son, T. T. Laurensen, R. Pestonji, C. B. Riggs, F. W. Stapleton, E. C. Tregillus, B. M. Tape, E. Wylie, and H. F. Yun.

COAL BILL

Debate in Commons
Adjourned

London, Yesterday. Owing to the indisposition of Mr. William Graham, President of the Board of Trade, who had been working extremely hard recently, both at Geneva on the tariff conference and at Westminster in connection with the Coal Bill, the debate on the latter was adjourned at an early hour. Mr. Graham has been advised to rest during the week-end.—British Wireless Service.

"ENGLISH SINGERS"

Extra Concert in the Theatre

DELIGHTFUL PROGRAMME

"The English Singers" did the right thing when they decided to give an extra concert at the Theatre Royal last night. Hong Kong turned out in full force to do them honours, and every seat was filled.

A delightful programme had been arranged including proved favourites and some new numbers. The three ladies in their graceful flower-hued gowns of rose, geranium and foxglove made a brilliant blaze of colours on the platform. Among much that was delightful, some numbers must be singled out for special mention: The lovely "Holla Christus natus est" by Sweelinck; and a pianissimo part-song, "On the plains," by Weekers, sung with hushed voices, were both exquisite examples of 16th century part-writing.

Carols by modern composers followed without striking a jarring note. Indeed, the "Corpus Christi" of Peter Warlock gained warm applause and showed what wonders may be worked by the skilful use of crude minor dissonances. Vaughan-Williams' carol "We've been awhile wandering" is beautiful and haunting, and won such applause that the Singers were compelled to repeat it. In this, the melody seems to be carried by the soprano and baritone in turn, while the other voices hum a soft and rhythmical accompaniment—fascinating in the extreme!

"The Cryers of London" is a modern arrangement founded on the fantasias for voice and strings of Gibbons and Dering, and it made a novel and amusing break in the programme.

Martin Shaw's charming "Patapan" ended the programme, but not the concert; since the audience remained firmly seated in their chairs—refusing to move until their prolonged applause had gained them some further encore, —viz., Bennett's "Hunting Madrigal," Vaughan-Williams' "Trio," Dove, and Morley's "Now is the month of May" in all of which the voices of the ladies sounded particularly fresh and lovely.

Hong Kong admits a debt of gratitude to Mr. Strok! First he brought to our shores La Argentina, that most alluring Spanish dancer! Then he brought Madame Galli Curci—world-famous prima-donna! And now he has earned our warmest thanks by introducing to us "The English Singers"—"ACWO."

UNEMPLOYED 490,000 Idle Following the C.E.R. War CLAIM FOR DAMAGES

Harbin, Yesterday.
Upon investigation made along the Chinese Eastern Railway, it is found that the Chinese workers, who had lost their employment after the Soviet invasion, totalled 490,000, of which 217,168 returned to their respective villages, are now coming back to Harbin, looking for employment, due to the recent resumption of the C.E.R.
During the Soviet invasion, the damages in Kirin Province amounted to $17,000,000, a report of which has been submitted to the Northeastern Political Council, in order to ask Russia for compensation at the coming Sino-Russian conference. With regard to the military damages a detailed list will be made by the Border Defence Authorities.

MR. V. GONSALVES Death of Recreio Club Founder A FORMER PRESIDENT

One of the founders of the Club de Recreio, and a leading spirit in the activities of that Club since its inception, the death of Mr. V. Gonsalves, which occurred last night,
is a great loss to the local Portuguese community.
The late Mr. Gonsalves devoted much of his time to the management of the Club de Recreio, from its earliest days. He had on two occasions served as President, and his demise will be learned of with much regret by all those who had come in contact with him.
Mr. Gonsalves was formerly employed at Messrs. David Sassoon and Co., but up to the time of his death he was engaged by Messrs.
Maxim and Co. He leaves three sons to mourn his death.
The funeral takes place this afternoon. Owing to Mr. Gonsalves' death, the Club de Recreio will not play their League football fixture.

'BUS FATALITY

Boy Knocked Down in Queen's Road RESULT OF INQUEST

Yesterday afternoon Mr. A. W.
G. H. Grantham held an enquiry at the Central Magistracy into the death of a Chinese youth named Tang Sang (16), who was killed in Queen's Road West on February 15 through being run over by a Hong Kong Hotel bus.
According to the bus driver, the youth suddenly dashed across the road in front of the vehicle. He probably did not see the approaching bus because he was carrying a basket of refuse on his shoulder.
Witness immediately swerved
the bus but it was impossible to avoid knocking the boy down.
The Coroner returned a verdict of accidental death.

The following programme will be broadcast to-day from the Hong Kong Broadcasting Station Z.B.W. on 355 metres—
1.45 p.m.—Weather Report.
7-9 p.m.—Experimental Programme.

Company's Orchestra.
9.15 p.m.—Dance Programme of Columbia Records by courtesy of the Anderson Music Company.
11.30 p.m.—Close Down.
Study of Cantonese
The first of a series of twelve lessons on the study of Cantonese will be broadcast from the Studio, at 7 p.m. on Tuesday next, and thereafter on each Tuesday and Friday at the same time. The lessons will be delivered by the Rev.
H. R. Wells, O.B.E., author of "Cantonese for Everyone" which book will be the text book for the course. "Cantonese for Everyone" is on sale at Messrs. Kelly and Walsh, booksellers, priced one dollar.
It is essential that if full advantage is to be taken of the lessons, the listener has ready for the first lesson, a copy of the text book and paper for taking notes. There will be no time to teach the first lesson again although it will be referred to in the course of the second lesson.
Listeners are further advised that Mr. Wells wishes to have letters from learners stating their difficulties, answers to which will be given in the course of the following lesson.

Have You Heard?

A country labourer was endeavouring to explain to several companions the meaning of the word
"phenomenon."
"It's like this, mates," he began.
"Now, you see that field of thistles?
Well, that's no phenomenon."
"No?"
"Well, even if there was a donkey in the field at the same time, that wouldn't be a phenomenon. You see, mates?"
"Er—yes," came the chorus, even more doubtful than before.
"But if you saw that donkey sitting on a thistle singing like a lark —well, mates, that would be a
phenomenon."
Man (morning after a night out, to kitter in his bedroom): "That's right, stamp about!"
Algernon (reading joke): "Fancy this, Percy; a chap here thinks that a football coach has four wheels."
Percy: "Hem, haw. And how many wheels has the bally thing?"
"Hard-working little wife you've got, Bill," said the traveller to the small shopkeeper, as he watched the shopkeeper's wife busy in the shop.
"My word, yes," replied the man;
"I only wish I had a couple more like her."
"Madam, you've already overdrawn your account."
"What's that?"
"You haven't any more money in the bank."
"The ideal! A fine bank, I think, to be out of money because of the little I've drawn. Well, I'll go somewhere else."

Two friends were crossing the ocean, and one did not find his sea legs throughout the voyage. His friend burst into the cabin where he lay one day. "What is it?"
asked the sick man. "A ship," said his friend. "Oh, I don't want to see a ship," groaned the other;
"call me when you see a tree!"
"Baby was taken very bad while you were out, mum," said the new maid.
"Oh, dear!" said the young wife;
"is he better now?"
"Oh, he's all right now; but he was ill at first. He seemed to come over quite faint, but I found his medicine."
"Good gracious! What have you given the child? There is no medicine in the house."
"Oh, yes, there is, mum. It's written on it."
And the girl triumphantly produced a bottle labelled, "Kid
reviver."

District visitor: "I am told that you have a model husband, Mrs.
Smith."
Mrs. Smith: "They do call him that, mum. But he ain't no workin' model, I will say."

Pressman (Interviewing centenarian): "And to what do you attribute your old age, sir?"
Centenarian: "To waiting for a shilling off the income tax, young man!"

BRITON ATTACKED

Fifteen Years for Assailant

Jerusalem, Yesterday.
The Arab assailant, of Mr.
Bentwich, a British official, last November, has been sentenced to fifteen years' hard labour.
An Arab lawyer Alcarus Bey has left for London to try to arrange for the Privy Council to hear the cases of seventeen Arabs whose death sentences in connection with the August outbreak have been confirmed by the Palestine Court of Appeal—Router.
[It was reported on November
24 that Mr. Norman Bentwich, the Public Prosecutor for the Mandatory Administration, was wounded in the leg by a shot fired at him, and was sent to hospital. His assailant was placed under arrest.]

E. F. Fincher Loses Hard Match

C. A. L. Rumjahn by defeating S. E. Green yesterday qualified for the third round. The score gives a very good idea of the match—6-1, 3-6, 6-3. Rumjahn owed his victory to his quickness on the court.

Luk Ding-cheung was extended to the full five sets before he defeated E. F. Fincher. This was an even game and well contested throughout.

The holders of the Doubles Championship, S. A. and H. D. Rumjahn, passed into the second

BOXING

Details of Phil Scott's Defeat

Miami, Yesterday.

In the fifteen round contest for the world's heavyweight championship, Jack Sharkey (America), defeated Phil Scott (England), on a technical knock-out in the third round.

It was an incredible decision. The referee, after all the controversy limiting his powers, actually consulted with the officials before deciding.

Johnson, Scott's manager, together with other persons, states that the referee first of all disqualified Sharkey. As the latter began to cry and protest the referee then reversed his decision. The referee denies this, however.

In an official statement he says: "Scott was hit twice in the pit of the stomach. I asked him to continue but he said, 'Give me a few seconds.' I therefore awarded the bout to Sharkey."

When a Reuter representative went into Scott's dressing room, Scott moaned and shrieked as a masseur attempted to move the right thigh, where a bruise was clearly visible and also a slight laceration. Yet the doctor insisted that there was no foul.

When the fight ended both boxers were hissed and booed by the crowd. Scott was carried from the ring by three policemen.

"No, I never fouled that cry baby. He just quit," said Sharkey.

"I have never seen a more disgusting decision in my life. I was hit at least six fouls," said Scott.

It is significant that Sharkey was warned for hitting low in the third round just before the knock-out.

Sharkey's aggression won him both the completed rounds. He had Scott down for counts of three and six in the second and for three and six again in the third.

A right swing by Sharkey sent Scott down in the second round and he was on the boards again from successive left, right and left blows for the count of six. In the third round, a tremendous left put him down the first time, and a right to the stomach felled him a little later. It was this blow which is the one in question.

Both boxers missed frequently throughout. Scott boxed finely, blocking, ducking and landing several times with his right. He also landed one tremendous left, but it did not appear to hurt Sharkey very much.

The end came after two minutes and thirty-four seconds in the third round.

In the preliminary bouts, Campolo and Risio fought for ten rounds, the result being announced as a draw. It was an unsatisfactory result, the crowd thinking that Risio won.

Later.

Travor Wignall, the Daily Express Miami correspondent, says that it was the foulest fight he has seen. Sharkey used every dirty trick invented, from butting and low hitting, to the use of the knee. It was a disgrace to boxing.

Fred Dartnell, of the Daily News, said Scott was deliberately robbed of the decision. He considers official protection against refringements is sadly lacking. The conduct of the fight thoroughly justified the fears of Scott's manager, Mr. Johnson.

New York messages state that experts' despatches from Miami generally uphold that it was a foul.

Damon Runyon, of the New York American, says: "A foul is a foul. I saw it."

Donald Skene, of the Herald Tribune, says: "Sharkey ripped a left hook to foul territory."

Fred Keats, of the Mirror, says: "Scott was hit five inches below the belt."

An unofficial doctor observer has diagnosed Scott's injury as traumatic ecclasia, induced by repeated blows on the sciatic nerve. He thrust a pin into Scott's thigh, and Scott did not wince and could not feel any pain.

The famous ex-lightweight champion and referee, Kid McPartland, told Reuter, "Sharkey seemed to me to hit Scott low, two or three times."

Scott will not enter the American ring again.

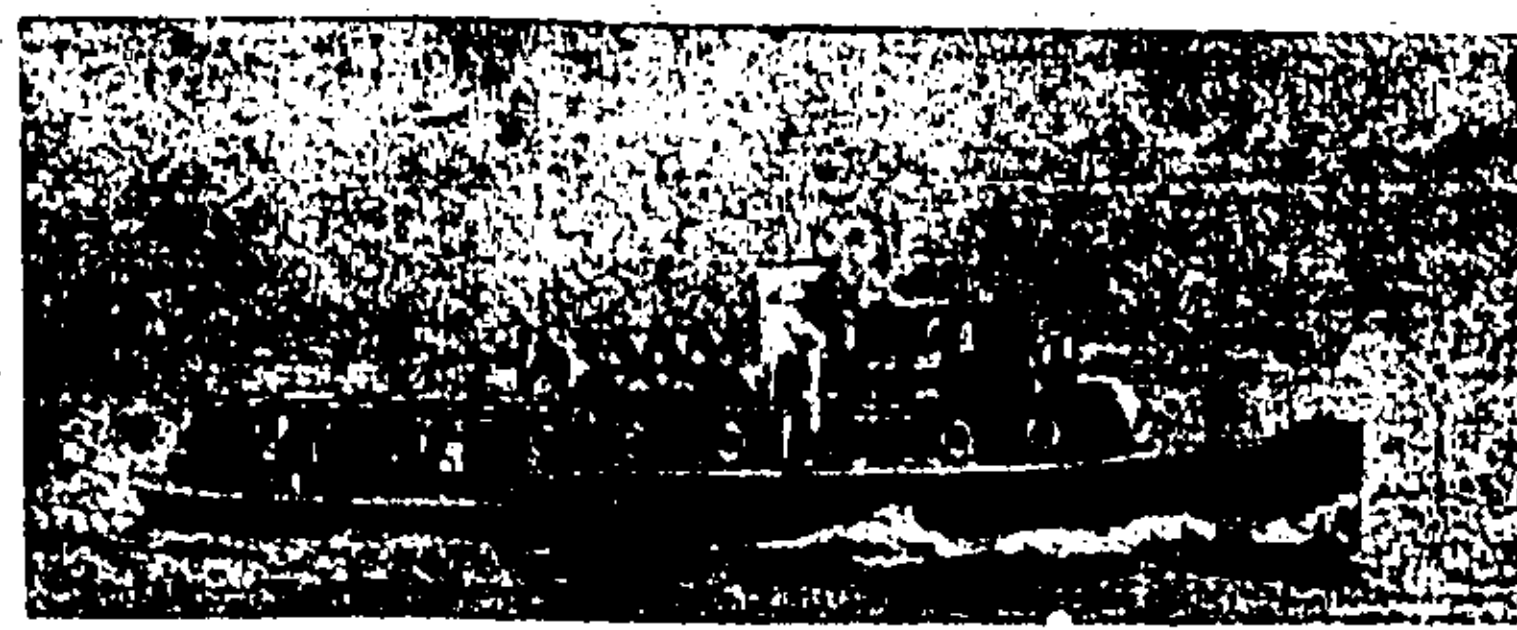

The fight was an abject all-round failure. Only 25,000 people were present, the takings being $40,000, compared with the expected $50,000.—Reuter's American Service.

"HIGH STEPPERS"

Excellent Performance at Kowloon Dock

For nearly two hours a large audience were entertained by those versatile artists, "The High Steppers," at the K.D.R.C. Reading room last night. Scottish jokes, as befitting the occasion, were plentiful.

The singing was as usual greatly appreciated, many new numbers being given. The dancing was good, and little need be said about the humour of Bert Beal, except that he was in his usual good form.

Another visit is anticipated at Kowloon Dock in the near future, when a complete change of programme will be given.

OPIUM CASE

Chinese Charged on Four Counts

Lau Wang, living at 8 Cheung Sau Street, was brought before Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning on four charges of the unlawful possession of raw opium, prepared opium, keeping an opium den on the first floor, and the possession of a quantity of false opium labels.

The defendant was remanded till Monday bail being granted in the sum of $500.

YESTERDAY'S SOLUTION

COMING BOOKS

Britain in the Seventies

COMMONS AND AMERICA

["England in the Age of the American Revolution"—Book I. Government and Parliament under the Duke of Newcastle; by L. B. Namier, author of "The Structure of Politics at the Accession of George III." 8vo. Macmillan & Co., About 21s. net.]

Mr. Namier, in the preface to his book on "The Structure of Politics at the Accession of George III," described it as, in a way, introductory to his main work on the history of Britain in the age of the American Revolution. Of that work the present volume forms the first part. It starts with a chapter on "The Social Foundations of England," which serves as groundwork to the history of the entire period; and then proceeds with a study of Government and Parliament under the Duke of Newcastle, arranged in five parts. The first deals with the constitutional position under George II, and with the personality of Newcastle and of George III, the latter study being largely based on hitherto unpublished letters from him to Lord Bute. Among other points of importance it is shown that about 1760 the King was still a real factor in the government of Britain—the active head of the executive—and that his right freely to choose his Ministers was universally acknowledged.

The second part deals with the history of the first six months of the new reign, the preparations for the election of George III's first Parliament, and with the negotiations and the readjustments within the Government which resulted in the assumption of office by Bute.

The third part of the book examines the Parliament as returned at the General Election of 1761; it contains an analysis of its politics and of the various groups and factions in the House.

In the fourth part, on "The House of Commons and America," Mr. Namier traces what acquaintance with the American Colonies the House had.

Special chapters are devoted to the West Indians, the merchants, the army officers, and the admirals, i.e., to the groups which comprised the greatest number of men connected or acquainted with America. The fifth part deals with the relations between Bute and Newcastle from the spring of 1761 till Newcastle's Parliamentary defeat in December 1762; on closer inquiry the history of those two years loses much of the sinister character with which it has been endowed by imaginative Whig pamphleteers.

["A Short History of British Expansion", by James A. Williamson, author of "Maritime Enterprise, 1485-1558," etc. New Edition. 2 vols. Macmillan & Co., 8 vo. Vol. I. The Old Colonial Empire. 15s. net. Vol. II. The Modern Empire and Commonwealth. 15s. net.]

Since this book was first written in 1919-21 many things have become clear that were then undefined in the history and constitution of the modern British Empire. Political developments in the post-War decade have been far-reaching, and international relations have assumed a new aspect. There has been great activity in the study of the Empire and Commonwealth, and books upon it have been published which exceed in number and importance the output of any previous period of similar length. It has therefore seemed desirable, not merely to revise but to rewrite the story of British expansion after 1783. It now contains seventeen chapters in place of the former eight, and about three-fourths of the text is new. The arrangement adopted is to relate the foundation of the units of the modern Empire in separate chapters, and then to continue the history as that of the Empire and Commonwealth as a whole.

["The Later Years of Thomas Hardy, 1891-1928," by Florence Emily Hardy; with portraits in photogravure and half-tone, and other illustrations. 8vo. Macmillan & Co., 18s. net.]

"The Early Life of Thomas Hardy," published in November 1928, dealt with the years from his birth in 1840 to 1891, when Tess of the D'Urbervilles appeared. This concluding volume is arranged in four parts with the following headings: Part I. "Tess, Jude, and the End of Prose"; Part II. "Verse to the End of the Dynasts"; Part III. "Time's Laughing-Stocks, Satires of Circumstance, and Moments of Vision"; and Part IV. covers the period of "Life's Decline."

The distinctive qualities of Mrs. Hardy's record of her husband's life and work have been widely recognized, and in no cases more effectively than in the tributes of Mr. J. C. Squire and Mr. Hugh Walpole. In writing of the first volume Mr. Squire pointed out that "Mrs. Hardy has woven her fabric so cunningly and so completely informed her own work with the spirit of her husband, that the joins are very difficult to detect. . . . Very many pages, particularly in the early chapters, appear to be almost entirely from Mr. Hardy's hand, so full are they of his characteristic tones and terms of expression. . . . This is almost like having a new prose book by Hardy all these years after he made his summary renunciation of what he called 'the trade of novel writing.' It tells us much more about his life than we knew before; it also shows how many of the incidents in his novels were drawn from his personal experiences."

In an article in "The Spectator" Mr. Hugh Walpole said that "Mrs. Hardy has done, in my view, the one inevitable right thing, linking fact to fact, making the background as clear as one of Hardy's own architectural designs, but doing no more than that, and the result is that Hardy's own words—comments, descriptions, ironies, similes—stand out with a beauty and drama that is perhaps only fully realized when the book is closed. . . . This seems to me a grand book—grand in the real sense that it places the reader in direct contact with fine, original, grand things, nothing and nobody intervening between him and them. That is where Mrs. Hardy has seen so rightly—that it is only Hardy who matters and that everything must go in comparison with him."

RETIRED MAJOR

A Volume of Snappy Reading

["What Happened to Forester," by E. Phillips Oppenheim; Hodder & Stoughton, 3/6 net.]

This book is written in the form of ten short stories, of the varied adventures of a retired soldier from the Army, styled as Major Forester.

Idle, middle-aged and comfortably off, Major Forester decides to pass the time visiting various places of renown on the Continent and London.

Even the most blasé young person would find such adventures more than enough to occupy his time and attention.

Many interesting encounters with international crooks are described.

One wishes that there was a second volume of these adventures; so interesting is this all-too-short but 300 page volume.

JAPAN

Indispensable Book for Travellers

Through the courtesy of Messrs. Thomas Cook & Son, Limited, we have received a copy of the third issue of Japan To-day and Tomorrow, published by the Osaka Mainichi, one of the leading newspapers of the Island Empire of the Orient.

The publishers are nothing if not modest in the use of the adjective "good" in comparing the present with the first two issues, but we are at one with them when they state that "this new edition will merit a prominent place in libraries, schools, offices, homes and everywhere where accurate information about Japan of to-day is sought, presented in an interesting and instructive manner." Moreover, this new edition should prove an indispensable companion for travellers to the Far East, an invaluable source for reference, and a constant and dependable guide for whoever wants to know Japan as it is to-day.

Japan To-day and Tomorrow is a fertile field of knowledge, covering every possible phase of Japanese life, much of which will bear reproduction in the columns of the soundest and best established journals of the East and the West.

Replete with illustrations, besides ten coloured plates, the magazine is a credit to writers, artists, and publishers; and, although Messrs. Thomas Cook & Son have only a very limited number of copies, special applications from any resident of Hong Kong will be favourably considered. In any event, a line to the publishers, the Osaka Mainichi, is bound to have the desired result.

What The Wise Wife Knows

No man can consider himself thoroughly understood by his wife unless she knows when he needs Pinkettes. For without such understanding she does not recognize the true reasons for his ill-temper, gloomy spirits, lack of appreciation of his food, or sympathetically suggest to him these troubles' best remedy.

As a corrective of liverishness, biliousness, morbidity, irregularity of the daily habit, Pinkettes are perfection. They also purify the breath, clear the skin, aid digestion and appetite. Of chemists everywhere, at 60 cents the vial.

"Taming of the Shrew"

The ceremony over, Petruchio begins his taming of the shrew. He announces to all the guests that business calls him hence and consequently they shall have to excuse him from presiding at the feast. Katherine, ready to obey, is unmoved. In front of the company, who are dumbstruck by this time, he picks her off to her new home on an old broomstick. When some of the guests come by and they finish the journey in driving rain. A couple of spills and a complete drenching haven't improved Katherine's disposition. But her husband is too much for her. He rages and storms about the way his servants have arranged things, finds fault with the food, throws it all over the place, rants till the rafters tremble and concludes by forbidding Katherine to eat and ordering her to retire. For the sake of quiet she submits to everything.

Santo Domingo Makes an Armistice

Washington, Yesterday. The State Department has received a despatch from the American Minister at Santo Domingo stating that an armistice has been arranged through the intervention of the American legation. It is hoped that a basis of permanent settlement will be attained.—Reuter's American Service.

[It was reported from Santo Domingo yesterday that H.M.S. sloop Wistaria proceeded to the Republic, where 2,000 insurgents occupied the City except the fortress, which was garrisoned by a few supporters of the President.]

NAVAL PARLEY

Conversations Only Continuing

Rugby, Yesterday.

Private conversations between the delegations to the Naval Conference took place this morning, but there were no developments of any importance. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald is this week-end taking a rest from conference work. Negotiations, in nature of conversations, have been contemplated for the week-end and the Premier will this evening go to his official country residence at Chequers. This morning the Premier visited the British Industries Fair at Olympia.—British Wireless Service.

Theft of Lead from Holt's Wharf

Before Mr. T. S. Whyte-Smith at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, a Chinese who admitted that he stole 2 lb. of red lead from Holt's Wharf was sent to jail for a week, while another was fined $10 or 14 days in default because he stole three packets of cigarettes from a stall in Hunghom.

A Shanghai carpenter, who took the law into his own hands by assaulting a Chinese police constable was fined $25 or three weeks' hard labour in default.

For the larceny of some wood from a yard in Canton Road, a Chinese, unemployed, got three weeks' jail.

A fifth Chinese, who had previously served three weeks in jail stole four glass window panes from a house in Pitt Street. He was sentenced to five months' hard labour.

posed them with all his strength. The bandits then robbed the pilgrims of all they possessed and made an attempt to burn the boat. They again attempted to seize the Sisters and the Bishop and Father were badly beaten as they frustrated the attempt. All five were then carried off into the mountains and there all were murdered three days afterwards.

Fathers Cavada and Larena, who were acquainted with the bandits, went into the mountains to treat with them, only to find that they had come too late.

25 Years' Service
The Bishop, has been in China for 25 years, and was created Bishop of his diocese ten years ago. He was born in Milan, and was the founder and the first Director of the Salesian Institute in Macao. Father Caravario arrived in China only last year, and was consecrated in the district where he met his sad death. He was only 25 years old, and leaves his grandparents to mourn him. His brother, it may be noted, is a printer at the St. Louis Industrial School, Hong Kong.

The sympathy of the whole community must go out to these brave men, who, conscious in their beliefs, went forward steadfastly, in supreme certainty and—as the report would seem to show—met their deaths fighting for what they considered as the best and noblest thing in life. Vale!
